The mission of the SchellmanSPIRRIT advocacy group is to help small, presently underutilized and/or underrepresented organizations, in understanding their present security posture and readiness / response capabilities to information security threats.

Strategic Objectives

Provide a flexible service offering to identify quick-win improvements to overall security posture, that is risk-focused and can be tailored to non-traditional organizations (e.g. – small, underrepresented businesses).

Use our experience and technical knowledge to help organizations identify, assess, manage, and reduce risk to increase their overall cyber sophistication.

Bring awareness to freely available resources from organizations such as NIST, CISA, and SBA.

“

As leaders, we must recognize that security of our nation is an everyone responsibility; to that end, Schellman recognizes the need to leverage our expertise to the benefit of those in critical need.

– Tara Lemieux
Senior Associate

Service Offerings

Readiness Assessments are a perfect complement for those organizations seeking to understand their compliance readiness or to identify, analyze, and mitigate critical security gaps within their organization. Offerings include SOC, FedRAMP, CMMC, FISMA/NIST SP 800-53, NIST SP 800-171, and ISO/IEC.

Targeted Risk-Focused Security Assessments are non-standards-based risk assessments that provide a robust means for organizations to identify gaps and obtain valuable feedback with respect to key security controls/risk areas.

Credentialed Training Services benefit organizations in all phases of maturing their security through highly interactive, best-in-class training.

Our goal is to help organizations adapt based on the latest threats, improve their cyber resilience, and provide valuable information that can be used to inform risk decisions.

– Christian Baer
Senior Associate

Value

By partnering with underrepresented and underserved communities, Schellman is hoping to empower, innovate, and help underrepresented/underserved businesses.

Through this unique opportunity, Schellman is extending its portfolio of services with the hope of building meaningful partnerships with currently underserved organizations and communities, ultimately reducing risk and advancing the organization's cyber resiliency their cyber resiliency at little to no cost*.

“

The security of our nations supply chain is not reserved to the privileged that can ‘afford’ it. It is the responsibility of all that participate. We are dedicated to helping those organizations that support our nation’s needs, regardless the depth of their pockets.

– Michael Redman
Senior Associate
